

How to use the DfE's MP look-up table

Introduction

This document outlines how to access and use the DfE's MP Parliamentary Constituency look-up table.

Quick look guide

Information on how to use this resource and sources that underpin it

Preview of the data in the lookup which is easy to navigate, useful to check a specific constituency

Can take URL to retrieve data programmatically in R, python, etc.

Automatic update of the lookup every Monday morning. Ability to see changes, e.g. as a result of vacancy filled or whip suspended

Transparent code that analysts can reuse

Ability to download the complete lookup as a csv

The screenshot shows the GitHub interface for the repository 'dfE-analytical-services / mp-lookup'. The left sidebar shows the file structure with 'data_update.R' and 'mp_lookup.csv' highlighted. The main area shows a preview of the 'mp_lookup.csv' file, which contains a table of parliamentary constituencies and their MPs. The table has columns: 'const_id', 'const_name', 'member_id', 'full_title', 'display_nm', 'party_text', 'member_email', and 'election_result_summary_2024'. The table lists 15 constituencies, including Redcar, Middlesbrough South and East Cleveland, Warrington North, Warrington South, Tatton, Runcom and Helsby, Widnes and Halewood, Darlington, Stockton West, Brigg and Immingham, Great Grimsby and Cleethorpes, Goole and Pocklington, Bridlington and the Wolds, and Kesteven upon Hull West and Haltemerice.

What does the MP look-up table contain?

The look-up table contains a single row for each current parliamentary constituency. Each row contains the following items:

- Parliamentary constituency code
- Parliamentary constituency name
- Member ID of current sitting MP
- Full title of current sitting MP
- Preferred display name of current sitting MP
- Political party of current sitting MP
- Primary e-mail address of current sitting MP
- Parliamentary constituency election result from the 2024 general election

Note

The MP look-up table is automatically updated every Monday.
